FENCING

Penn nips Wayne State for third crown

Behind the individual performance of Paul Friedberg in the sabre, Pennsylvania edged Wayne State, 113-111, to win the 1981 National Collegiate Men's Fencing Championships, held March 19-21 at the University of Wisconsin, Parkside.

In 1980, the roles were reversed as Wayne State won the championship with the Quakers settling for second place.

It was a repeat win for Friedberg in the sabre competition. But Wayne State's Ernie Simon and Gil Pezza also were repeat winners. Simon won a third individual title in the foil, thus becoming only the fourth individual to win three individual championships. Pezza became a two-time winner in epee competition.

It was Pennsylvania's third national title, the other two coming in 1953 and 1969. Wayne State, also a holder of three national titles, finished second for the third time.
