

COLLEGE FENCERS MEET

Annual Championship Begins at the New York Athletic Club.

SEVEN TEAMS IN COMPETITION

Harvard, Yale, Columbia, Cornell, Penn, West Point, and Annapolis Contest for Club Trophy.

Fencers from West Point, Annapolis, Harvard, Yale, Columbia, Cornell, and the University of Pennsylvania met in the eleventh annual competition for the intercollegiate fencing championship trophy presented by the Racquet and Tennis Club, at the New York Athletic Club last night, and though the competition will not be concluded until this evening the results of the bouts decided last night indicated that the contest for the trophy will be very close between West Point, Harvard, and Columbia, with the advantage slightly in favor of the West Pointers. The score at the end of the seventy-fifth bout last night was as follows:

West Point, 15; Harvard, 14; Columbia, 14; Yale, 11; Cornell, 9; Annapolis, 9, and University of Pennsylvania, 3.

Each institution was represented by a team of three men, as follows:

MISS DELMONICO'S WILL.

Controlling Interest in Restaurants Given to Her Niece.

The will of Miss Rosa Delmonico, the last member of the family of famous restaurateurs of that name, who died on March 24 last, was filed for probate in the Surrogate's Court yesterday. She owned no real estate in this city, and the petitioners state that the value of the personal property is about $200,000.

Three-quarters interest in the business, which includes the restaurants in Beaver Street and at Fifth Avenue and Forty-fourth Street, is bequeathed to the testator's niece, Josephine Crist Delmonico, "giving her," the will says, "a controlling interest in the business in my place or stead."

The other quarter of the interest is bequeathed to her nephew, Lorenzo Crist Delmonico, who also receives her stock and bonds in the Indiana Natural and Illuminating Gas Company. Stock of the American Sugar Refining Company is bequeathed to the niece, as well as the testator's household furniture and personal effects.

The executrix and executor under the will, which was executed on May 28 last, are Josephine Crist Delmonico and Albert Thieriot, of Chestertown, N. Y., who are empowered to conduct the business and to sell it.

Servant Remembered in Will.

The will of J. Howard Sweetser, dry goods merchant, who died March 4, was filed for probate yesterday. The testator leaves $500 to Margaret Burns, with a request to his children that she shall have care and attention as long as she lives. Four-thirteenths of the remainder of the estate are given to the widow and three-thirteenths to each of the three children. The widow and Howard Peck Sweetser, a son, are named as executrix and executor. The value of the estate is not given.

TURNER SPEAKS AGAIN.

Not Much About Anarchy, as His Case Comes Up Soon.

About 150 Anarchists, most of them young, who wanted to make sure of seeing Anarchist John Turner again before the question of his deportation came up for final decision in the Supreme Court, met last night at the Manhattan Lyceum on East Fourth Street. A reception and entertainment was held in his honor. Emma Goldman acted as spokesman.

Emma Goldman said that many things had been said about the "stupidity" of the American Government in detaining the guest of the evening, but that much more remained unsaid. Turner, however, evidently thought it inadvisable to speak too freely on the subject of anarchy just now. After describing his stay on Ellis Island as more of a pleasure than a hardship he said:

"I believe that America is going to be the first country of the world to adopt anarchism fully and absolutely. You have every opportunity here, in spite of the brutality of the police and the courts, to advance our cause, and you should improve these opportunities. Since I came here I have received letters from all over the United States from people who do not profess to be Anarchists who admit that they are ashamed of the attitude of the American Government toward the people. This shows me that there is a sprinkling of anarchist sentiment in every part of this country, and all you need to do is to arouse it."
