Message From The Chair

We continue to look forward, in British Fencing. To 2024 and our new strategic goals; to the rest of this year, 2013, in which we have to prove to our funders UK Sport and Sport England that we are a good bet for the funding cycle of 2013-2016; to the Rio Olympics, with hopes and plans for our new and further improved World Class Programme; to developing our new Talent Pathway; to our governance objectives; to the immediate impact of the elections for four new directors (completing our Board restructure, first announced in January 2012); and of course to the usual packed programme of domestic and international events. For all ages and levels.

So, the times of change I have talked of regularly in this column continue. I make no apology. Our sport has denied progress for too long. It's been many years since we won an Olympic medal, many moons since we really grew the number of fencers. Now we have the opportunity to change our fencing fortunes. We have extra public funds allocated; an excellent partner in Beazley; and a new Board and CEO with drive, focus and determination. And most important of all – a great community of fencing people. With plenty of talent and loads of commitment.

Your Board believes we can achieve really big change. By 2024, the magic date we've set, we aim to be the world's number one fencing nation; the best sports governing body in GB; and to have signed up 50,000 members. These are indeed ambitious goals. On the way to 2024, it's clear we have to speed up our recruitment of new fencers; increase our income; develop more and better and winning sabreurs, epeeists and foilists; and convince people of all ages to join British Fencing (and England, Scottish, Welsh and Irish Fencing).

Most of all, we have to engage the community of members. I have started a new series of Roadshows, to listen to members' views and discuss what's needed to make a difference. Scotland, Birmingham, Brunel, Sheffield and Wales are first on the list. I'm being asked regularly the big question – How are we going to reach these goals? What are we as a Board going to do, to make such a real difference to fencing in the UK?

My first answer is: I'm working with Peter King on a 2024 strategy for the Board to approve. This will start with the foundation stones to be laid in the first four years, 2013-16. The new Board (with the restructure completed) will start to debate this in April and the final version will I hope be published for member comment on the website in May/June.

Can we achieve this level of change in 11 years? We have to seek quality in all our efforts. Our strategy must give some answers. Belief will be important. To adapt the famous words of Eleanor Roosevelt: "No one can make us feel inferior without our consent." There is no reason why we can't be the best. No reason why our British fencers can't be world beaters. No reason why fencing can't be the sport and activity of choice for thousands more people of all ages. No reason why we can't grab more of this nation's sporting talent. No reason why we can't give our members great customer service and value for money. No reason why we can't acquire and grow the best coaches, referees and organisers; we already have the highest quality volunteers all round the country. No reason why.... we can't plan, prepare and battle to the very best of our ability.

As I write, James Davis has shown the way, with his terrific gold medal in St Petersburg. And those Junior foilists with their great bronze, the first such medal since 2010.

What do you think? Do write, text or phone me, with your views and advice. Come to a Roadshow near you. Let's spread the ideas and debate.

KING TO STAY ON

Peter King is to continue as CEO of British Fencing until April 2014. BF Chair David Teasdale commented, "The whole Board is delighted that Peter has agreed to stay to lead the sport through a challenging and exciting year of change. His experience and skills have already proved invaluable".

Peter King said, "There is a lot of work to be done to help British Fencing realise its true potential, but with funding and support from UK Sport and Sport England and our commercial partners Beazley I relish the prospect of building the foundations for that progress."

FIE ELECTIONS

At the FIE Electoral Congress in Moscow in December Alisher Usmanov was re-elected as president of the FIE. Peter Jacobs stepped down after a record 24 years on the Executive, 12 as Secretary-Treasurer, and was elected to the Legal Commission. Clare Halsted and Janet Huggins were re-elected, to the Medical and SEMI commissions respectively, and Hilary Philbin was elected for the first time to the Promotion and Publicity Commission. In the subsequent Executive meeting Georgina Usher was selected for the Women and Fencing Council and David Sweeney for the Veterans Council. Sadly, Steve Higginson, who has served BF stalwartly for nearly 40 years as translator of the FIE rules, failed to be re-elected to the Rules Commission.

More than 130 images were submitted to British Fencing in a photographic competition run on Facebook. There were five categories: each of the three weapons, under-18 and a fencing-related Other. All the winners found inspiration at the Olympic Games, as shown here.

Overall winner & sabre: Woo Young Won (KOR) attacks Tiberiu Dolniceanu (ROM) in the final of the men's team sabre – Gary Longthorn

U18: The Italian men's foil gold medallist team
– Jordan Chang

Foil: US fencer Alexander Massialas on guard – Paul Cocovinis

Other: A ballet dancer with a perfectly balanced foil
– Andrew Chang

CORRECTION

January's cover caption said that Georgina Usher was the first fencer to equal Gillian Sheen's record of ten national titles. Apologies to Louise Bond-Williams who has also achieved this feat. A female fencer has now won ten titles at each weapon.

COLLECTORS' CORNER

Typical. You wait years for a rare and interesting old foil to come on the market and then three of them turn up within a few months. In December Bamfords of Derby offered a lot of four foils, one of which had the date 1764 stamped into the blade. This is the earliest fencing weapon to be dated, but its history is unknown. Perhaps it saw service in the academy of Domenico Angelo, the most fashionable fencing master of the 18th century.

In their February sale, Gildings of Market Harborough lumped together a pair of 20th century epees, which they called foils, with "another pair of foils". Little did they realise that these Italian hilted weapons with broad buttoned tips, whose handles had long since disintegrated, were among the earliest sporting foils ever made. One blade is marked IHN SOLINGEN, a 17th century spelling indicating manufacturer in the principal blade making centre of Europe – Solingen, near Dusseldorf in Germany. The shoulder of each blade bears the stamp of a letter P under a crown, the mark of London sword-cutler Nicholas Pace, who is known to have been working from 1655. He would have imported the blades and made hilts for them before selling the finished foils to a clientele encouraged to learn fencing by the restoration of Charles II and depicted in plate 2 of Hogarth's The Rake's Progress.

All three weapons can now be seen in the National Fencing Museum.

Davis wins St Petersburg Grand Prix

James Davis cut through the ranks of the world's top foilists to win the St Petersburg Grand Prix in fine style at the beginning of March. Despite a shaky start with only three victories out of six in his poule to get a ranking of just 53rd, he began strongly in his first DE match, beating the French 2011 world bronze medallist Victor Sintes 15-5 in the first period. He then carved out a big lead against Jun Heo (KOR), runner-up at La Coruna, and went on to win 15-9.

A far tougher prospect came in the L16 in the form of Giorgio Avola (ITA), European champion and world No. 9. However, Davis's attacks were working well and he built up a strong lead by the first break before Avola closed the gap to 12-10. Davis held his nerve to win 15-12.

His quarter-final match was against Marius Braun (GER), who had knocked him out at the same stage in the Wakayama Grand Prix last year. It was a hard fought encounter, with Davis leading by two hits entering the last minute. Braun then made two well timed fleche attacks to draw level followed by a parry-riposte to take the lead. The pressure was now on Davis to equalise and he did so with a direct lunge to make it 8-all at time. Braun received the priority and was expected to wait for Davis to attack. Instead he tried a surprise fleche, but was too close and Davis blocked him out and landed the counter to win 9-8.

He was now in unknown territory – a first World Cup or Grand Prix semi-final. Here he faced the home favourite and world No. 7 Artur Akhmatkhuzin (RUS), winner of the previous World Cup in La Coruna, who had just beaten world No. 1 Andrea Cassara (ITA) in the previous round. Undeterred by this and having lost heavily to him in the Olympic team event, Davis opened up a 6-4 lead at the first break. The Russian attempted to up the pace in the second period, but Davis kept his composure and produced some well executed counter-ripestes. As his confidence grew so did his aggression and he took the fight 15-8, finishing with two strong attacks to reach the final. In the other semi, Valerio Aspromonte (ITA) took on Alexander Massialas (USA) and they traded hits to 6-all before the American pulled away to win 15-10.

"The final was probably one of my most difficult but enjoyable fights", James said. "I started well and was soon 3-0 up, but he wouldn't stop attacking and opened up an 11-8 lead before I managed to equalise at 12-all. Then he pulled away again to 14-12." Unfazed by a dislodged earth wire that robbed him of a hit, Davis fought back. "I remember my 14th hit the most. As I took the parry I could see his back open, but it was a risky hit as he was so good at remising. Had I missed, he would have surely hit me. But my flicked riposte landed. Only 7 seconds left on the clock and still in the first period. As he attacked, I saw the opportunity for a stop hit and, although so few had worked during the match, this seemed like an opportunity not to be missed; one light on the box, and I had won the St Petersburg Grand Prix! I dropped to my knees in sheer delight. It was a fantastic feeling standing on the No. 1 podium, seeing the flag raised and singing my national anthem." He added, "I'm thrilled to win my first senior medal and can't wait for the next event. I would like to thank my coach, Ziemek, for all his work and the rest of the support team."

Richard Kruse also had a good result, finishing sixth. Starting as 11th seed, he brushed aside the inexperienced Russian Drobyshev 15-4 in the L64 before undergoing a more testing time against the left-handed Journet (FRA), who was ahead for most of the fight. But Kruse eventually equalised and went on to win 15-13, finishing with a sixte flick to shoulder. In the L16 he faced one of the young USA stars, another left-hander, Race Imboden. Confident that history would repeat itself (Kruse had beaten him two years ago in the same tournament on the same end of the piste), he led from the start, hitting with low-high attacks and blocking counters to win 15-6. The quarter-finals brought him up against Aspromonte (ITA), who has twice beaten Kruse 15-14. And true to form, the Italian raced to a 6-0 lead with devastating counter-attacks. But Kruse adjusted by becoming more defensive and managed to equalise at 8-all before the Italian pulled away again to win 15-10.

"This was an important result for me", Richard said, "because I needed to at least retain the L16 I got in St Petersburg last year in order to stay in the world's top 16 and avoid having to fence in the poules."

Following St Petersburg, Davis and Kruse were ranked 12th and 13th respectively in the world.

The Importance of Point Control

Beazley Trophy & Corble Cup

Observations by John Roberts

Photographs by Andy Chubb Photography (www.peverilphoto.com)

Britain's women's sabre world cup event has been renamed the Beazley Trophy in recognition of Beazley's sponsorship of British Fencing. Of the 12 Britons who took part, six were unable to make it out of the first round and a further three went out in the preliminary knockout stages. The remaining three – Katherine Kempe, Joanna Hutchison and Sophie Williams – all reached the L64 with comfortable victories over Belgin (TUR) 15-6, Boudad (FRA) 15-12 and Gonzalez (MEX) 15-12 respectively. Then their luck ran out. Kempe went down 10-15 to Navarro (ESP), Williams lost 13-15 in a tight contest with Stoltz (FRA) and Hutchison was edged out 15-14 by Lembach (FRA).

Hutchison initially led 6-3, but then fell behind 7-10. When it seemed that Lembach might run away with the fight, Hutchison fought back to 12-14 and then found the ideas and the judgment to equalise, only to lose the last hit in a flurry of strokes. The referee had to make a difficult decision; somehow Hutchison's effort seemed to deserve a more transparent ending.

In the L32, last year's winner Vougiouka (GRE) went out to Voronina (UKR). 2-8 down at the break, she never seemed to be in control of everything at once. The energy kept on flowing, but strong moves were mistimed and the distance was never quite right. The closest she got was within four hits and eventually lost 9-15. At the same stage, Boudiaf (FRA) showed tremendous mobility and athleticism against double Olympic champion Zagunis (USA). She led all the way to 11-9 before a long delay for computer screen problems gave the American a chance to regroup. She fought back to equalise and then forced her way home 15-13.

Zagunis met and in-form Socha (POL) in the quarter-finals and was 5-8 down at the break. At this point Zagunis's coach gave her incisive instructions illustrated by urgent arm movements, as if she was an inexperienced fencer missing out on an opportunity. Socha did not make Boudiaf's mistake of relaxing and was prepared for a determined comeback by the American. It was careful, wary and concentrated fencing with only seven hits scored in the second period, by the end of which the Pole had extended her lead to 12-8. In the third session Zagunis could find no way through and Socha won 15-9.

The event was won by Vecchi (ITA) who defeated Dyachenko (RUS) 15-11 in the final. The bronze medals went to Kharlan (UKR), who lost to Vecchi 14-15 in the semis, and Socha, who went down to Dyachenko 12-15.

In the Corble Cup team event Great Britain was represented by Kempe, Williams, Kira Roberts and Ruth Watson. Williams started well in the first match against China, winning 5-2, but by the time she returned to the piste GB were down 15-20. She pulled the team back into the match by taking the bout 9-5 to come within one point of the Chinese before China stepped up a gear and pulled away, eventually winning 45-33. In the placings match GB narrowly beat Mexico 45-44, but lost to the USA 33-45 and Belarus 36-45 to finish 12th. The event was won by a delighted team from Ukraine who overcame Russia 45-31 in the final. Poland took the bronze medal by beating Germany 45-23.

GLL Camden International Sabre

Despite the absence of several strong teams, in part the result of the fencing world's seeming inability to get to grips with the calendar in a timely fashion, the GLL Camden International cadet sabre nevertheless saw some fine performances.

Britain's challenge was led by Camden's Jonathan Webb, who is top of the domestic men's cadet sabre rankings. He sailed through the poules and early rounds of DE but, despite a strong effort against Carlos Olmedo of Spain in his semi-final, went down 10-15 and had to settle for bronze. Olmedo in turn was beaten 15-11 in the final by Charles Colleau of France. The next best home performance came from William Deary of Truro, who ended the day 9th after just missing a quarter-final place by losing 14-15 to another Frenchman Jean-Phillippe Patrice.

British No.2 Rubin Amsalem suffered mixed fortunes in the individual event. After overcoming the second-ranked Frenchman Noel Caneli 15-11 in the L64, he was defeated 15-13 by Benjamin Roger, also France. Both Amsalem and Caneli entered repechage, but whilst Caneli progressed to the final stages, Amsalem had no such luck and succumbed 15-13 to yet another French fencer Audrenn Lemeec to end the day 21st.

The women's individual competition was a French whitewash, led by Manon Brunet successfully defending her title. France took the top three places along with 5th, 6th and 8th, with just Ilgin Sarban of Turkey taking the other bronze and the Hungarian Lili Drajko coming in 7th place.

Paralympics inspire Wheelchair Partners

Their experience as part of the British wheelchair fencing team at the London 2012 Paralympics have stimulated partners Gemma Collis and Craig McCann into producing their best results to date: Gemma came fifth in a World Cup event in Hungary and Craig reached the quarter-finals in Hong Kong. Gemma achieved her result in both foil and epee, beating the world No. 1 epeeist, Zsuzsanna Krajnjak, along the way.

Gemma Collis

Growing up, Gemma was very athletic and participated in a variety of sports, competing at national level in figure skating and representing her county in hockey and athletics. By the age of 15, she was county triple jump champion and had high ambitions of competing for her country.

However, in 2008 Gemma's dreams were cruelly dashed when she was diagnosed with Complex Regional Pain Syndrome, a progressive nervous system disease that affects the functioning of the nerves in her right leg. She was devastated and believed that her sporting career was over.

Determined to remain involved in sport, Gemma began coaching, officiating and volunteering, discovering more about disability sport in the process. In 2010 she began playing wheelchair basketball. But it was not until she started her law degree at Durham University in October 2011 that Gemma tried wheelchair fencing for the first time, after being spotted by head coach Laszlo Jakab.

"I loved it from the start", she says. "It's so much faster than any other sport I've done and requires intense concentration, but the way it combines physical and mental stimulation gives me a tremendous buzz."

Three months later she represented Great Britain at her first international competition, the Malchow World Cup and, just 10 months after taking up the sport, competed as part of the women's epee team alongside Gabi Down and Justine Moore at the Paralympics.

Gemma Collis

"I never imagined I would take part in the Paralympics", adds Gemma. "It has fulfilled a lifetime dream and has spurred me on to try even harder. Twelve days after the Games, we went to Hungary where I achieved my best ever performance."

The downside is funding. After the Paralympics, wheelchair fencing initially lost all its funding from UK Sport, but has been given a lifeline of one year in which to demonstrate real ability. Gemma has to juggle training wherever she can – at Durham University, Touché Fencing Club, Stoke Mandeville – with pursuing her law degree.

Help has come from Sky Sports, which were impressed by a speech she gave at her county games and selected her as an athlete mentor for their Living for Sport programme. This secondary schools initiative, delivered in partnership with the Youth Sport Trust, uses sport as a hook to boost confidence, change behaviour, increase attainment and improve life skills. Twenty-year-old Gemma says: "Since I have become disabled I have learnt that you have to see obstacles as hurdles you can get over, not barriers stopping you. I hope by sharing my story I can inspire the young people I meet to achieve their potential, no matter what barriers they come up against in life."

Craig McCann

Always keen on sport, Craig was a rowing enthusiast at university. Having signed up to join the RAF at 20, Craig underwent the necessary medical examination for new recruits, during which doctors found a brain tumour. This required immediate surgery, following which Craig underwent extensive rehabilitation and rebuilt his life.

After attending a Paralympics Potential session a couple of years ago, he was spotted by the British Disabled Fencing Association as having a talent for fencing. He has been in training ever since, putting a legal career on hold in order to train full-time.

This decision led to Craig being selected to represent Great Britain at both European and world championships in his first international year, as well as for his first Paralympic Games just over two years after taking up the sport. He fenced in the foil team event with Simon Wilson and David Heaton. "London 2012 was a steep learning curve", says Craig. "There were no easy fights." He plans to continue training hard for Rio if sufficient funding becomes available.

Craig, 29, has also been appointed as an athlete mentor by Sky Sports, commenting: "I hope that the students I work with will be able to use my story as inspiration to help improve their own outlook on life." Secondary schools can learn more about Living for Sport at www.skysports.com/livingforsport.

Obituary

BOB TURNER (1941 – 2013)

Bob Turner, who died following a serious illness on 19 February 2013, was universally respected both as a fencer and as someone who would always offer encouragement, and who could be relied on for sensible input into whatever was under discussion.

Bob had a long and distinguished fencing career, joining his local fencing club in Cardiff as a schoolboy. He was awarded his international colours in the early sixties and represented Wales in the Commonwealth Games of 1966 and again in 1970 (the last at which fencing appeared in the programme). One of his greatest successes was at the 1974 Commonwealth Fencing Championships in Ottawa, where he led the Welsh epee team to a silver medal.

In addition to established events such as the Welsh Open, which continue to attract talented fencers, Bob felt there was a need for a competition for intermediate fencers. As a result, in the 1980s he instigated the Turner Cup at epee for which he provided a silver trophy.

Bob was also an adept administrator, serving on numerous bodies, including the Welsh Sports Council and the Welsh Sports Association, as well as being vice-chairman and subsequently chairman of Welsh Fencing 1985-2012, and president of the Commonwealth Veterans Fencing Association 2009-2013. He was also a long-serving governor, latterly a director, of SportsAid Cymru Wales, the charity which for nearly 30 years has been providing grants to promising young sportsmen and women in Wales at the start of their careers.

His skills were put to the test in 1986, when the Commonwealth Fencing Championships were held in Cardiff concurrently with the Commonwealth Games in Edinburgh. The overall co-ordination of the championships fell to Bob, then Welsh Fencing vice-chairman. They had attracted very little media attention until it was learned that a fencer from Malaysia was taking part, as the Commonwealth Games themselves had been boycotted by a large number of African, Asian and Caribbean countries in protest at the Government's attitude towards British sporting links with the then apartheid-era South Africa. Suddenly there was a lot of media attention, but thanks to Bob's statesman-like manner, this was handled with calm professionalism and a potentially disruptive situation defused.

Throughout his sporting career, as well as giving encouragement where needed, Bob took the trouble to recognise the services of others, such as coaches, competition organisers, website designers, legal advisers and other helpers. In addition, he ensured that those, who in times gone by had given sterling service, were recognised by making them honorary life members of Welsh Fencing.

For his services to fencing, Bob received the BFA silver medal in 2006 and in 2011 was awarded a Torch Trophy by Princess Alexandra. At the time of his passing, a submission prepared by a consortium of his friends was under consideration by the Honours & Appointments Secretariat, and it would be fitting to think that he would have added at least an MBE to his other accolades.

To the last, Bob was a competitive fencer. He was invariably the man to (try and) beat, wherever he fought, whether in his club or at a tournament. In 1997 he took the silver medal in the veterans' world epee championship trial event in Johannesburg. Following surgery in 2007, he immediately got back into fencing to compete in the veterans' world championships in Sydney.

As recently as May 2012, Bob fenced for the Welsh Veterans' team in the Welsh epee championships, where they finished second behind a formidable Cardiff A team. "Not a bad result for the old dogs!", he commented in an email to me at the time.

Bob will be remembered for his constant enthusiasm, generosity and friendship that encouraged us all to do more. He will be greatly missed.

Michael Clemitsen

Edmund Gray writes:

Bob Turner was the most constant of people. As fencers young and old have testified, he was friendly and encouraging towards everyone. Invariably even tempered, never to be hurried, he was always good company, and worth listening to.

His fencing style was remarkably constant too. His technique was characteristically undramatic, steady and effective in his controlled finger movement. Endlessly patient, using his considerable height and upright stance, he played a game of fine bladework, of stop hit and tight contact-attack – and hardly ever all-out attack. Opponents did well to respond with corresponding caution, and prolonged bouts frequently resulted. Always courteous to opponents, he took defeats unemotionally, stretching his face in a wry grimace, swiftly followed by a grin.

Bob's father, originally from Birmingham, was manager in a hardware wholesale business. Both parents were sports enthusiasts. Before he took up fencing at the age of 18, Bob was himself a keen cricketer. He was educated at grammar schools in Cardiff and Wales and at London and Swansea Universities. In 1976 he married Vivien Lysaght, whose career was in the health service and higher education, and whose spirited strong-minded nature complemented his more reticent personality. His own career was as an academic, lecturing in politics and management at the University of Wales; he often took the trouble to bring his students into contact with key political figures. Always a fount of common sense and free of personal bias, he came to devote almost as much time and trouble to sports administration.

Not one much to reveal his inner self, Bob loved to tell little anecdotes of encounters he'd had, delivered with a grin and a chuckle. He was very loyal in his friendships. What was particularly remarkable was the way he took endless pains to sustain those who were in trouble or merely stood in need of friendship, without regard for any special affinity. To take one very small example, he travelled from Cardiff to furthest Kent simply as a sympathetic act towards a stricken fellow veteran fencer. He is survived by his wife, a married son and a grand-daughter.

Malcolm Fare adds:

I first met Bob 40 years ago this summer in Dieppe, where we had independently arrived on 14 July for an epee tournament. He was leading a group of five Welsh fencers, three men and two women, and I was on my own. It was typical of his generosity of spirit that he should invite me to join them in a search for accommodation. As it was the French national holiday, the place was packed. We looked in vain for three rooms and ended up all sharing the last available hotel room in the town. It was a memorable start to what was to be a long friendship during which we enjoyed many overseas trips together combining fencing with sightseeing. I came to admire Bob as a man of many fine qualities. Always a gentleman on and off the piste, he was also a great companion.

WHERE HAVE ALL THE COACHES GONE?

As a registered coach, I was due to renew my CRB check and received an early email reminder from British Fencing. But instead of receiving the form automatically through the post, I now have to first send BF a SAE for them to send me the form. When I queried the reason for this, I expected the answer to be simply saving postage costs. I was therefore surprised to receive the following explanation: "It is designed to be more economical as we learnt that sending out 10-30 new CRB application forms every month, with only 2-3 coaches completing and returning them, was not a good use of the membership fee. This is why we now request coaches to send us a stamped addressed envelope."

Whilst saving postage is ultimately the reason, to me the figures do not add up. It appears that BF are losing 80-90% of registered coaches a month! At that rate, there will not be many left. I find this hard to believe. If this is the case, what are BF doing about it? If not, what is really going on?

RING MY BELL

We have for many years rung church bells in our own tower and around the world. I wondered if there were any other fencers who were also campanologists. I would like to try and set up a fencing quarter peal, or even a peal. So, if you are a fencer and a ringer, please contact me and we will see if we can arrange a get together somewhere central.

VETS NEWS

National Championships

Men's Foil

John Troiano collected his second veterans' title without dropping more than five hits in any match. It was an assured performance in which he used his acute sense of distance allied to a long reach to dispose of Nick Fihosy 10-4 in the semi-finals and the ever-dangerous Graham Paul 10-3 in the final. Now 65, Paul has appeared in every final tableau since he last won the title in 2008. In his semi-final against Dominic Chang, he took an early 4-1 lead before Chang equalised at 4-all and then, after passivity had taken them to the last minute, 6-all. With priority in his favour, Paul held off an increasingly desperate Chang to win 10-6. Coming through from second seed, Fihosy repeated his bronze medal performance of last year.

Women's Foil

Gillian Worman, the most consistent fencer on the circuit, won her second veterans' title at her eighth consecutive appearance in the final tableau. In her semi-final against new veteran Kate O'Connell, she was always ahead, using neat compound beat attacks and stop hits into preparations to win comfortably 10-4. The other semi swung one way then the other as Caron Hale took a 6-3 lead only for Jane Clayton to equalise by the break. But from 7-all Hale drew away with a riposte and two counter-attacks to win 10-7. She used her very effective counters while retreating to build up a 5-2 lead in the final before Worman improved the timing of her attacks to equalise at 6-all, continuing with increasing confidence to win 10-7.

Men's Epee

It was no surprise to find Neal Mallett, the most successful veteran epeeist of recent years, in the final with newcomer Chris Howser, former British champion who appeared in the senior final tableau only last year. More of a surprise were their opponents in the semi-finals: John Hyde and John Leahy, 31st and 13th seeds respectively. But they both earned their places, Hyde knocking out the No. 2 seed Stephan Munn 10-8 and then in the quarter-finals the No. 7 seed Mark Thompson 10-7, while Leahy took out the fourth seed Jonathan Stanbury 10-4 and last year's runner-up Rob Flatt 10-6. Hyde fought hard in the semis and at one stage was just one hit behind at 6-5 before Mallett moved up a gear to win 10-5. Leahy was always struggling against the speed of Howser's prise-de-fer attacks and flicked ripostes to shoulder, going down 4-10.

The final was a master class in epee fencing as Mallett began by executing some neat beat lunges and broken time attacks to build up a 5-1 lead before Howser found his range, equalising at 5-all with counter-attacks and his trademark prise-de-fer fleches. He went ahead briefly, but Mallett used a variety of attacks to body and foot to take control of the match, culminating in a feint fleche attack to draw the counter followed by a parry-riposte to win 10-6 and collect a record sixth veterans' epee title.

Women's Epee

Just eight hits against her in four DE fights said it all as Georgina Usher, reigning senior British champion, took a stroll through the tableau to win her first veterans' title without breaking sweat. Kate Smith did well to land five of those eight hits in her semi-final, but in the final Nicola Hull could find no answer to her opponent's perfect timing, accuracy and reach as Usher won with embarrassing ease 10-1. Hull had had a more even match in the semis against Jenny Morris, leading 6-5 at the break and then drawing away to win 10-7.

Men's Sabre

With the dominant figure missing this year – Richard Cohen has been a medallist every year for the past 13 years – the men's sabre title was up for grabs. Three of the semi-finalists were in their 40s, only Carl Morris, 61, of the older generation managing to join them and he was blown away by Rob Penton 10-2. In the other half of the draw, Duncan Rowlands came through after a narrow 10-9 victory over Keith Rogerson in the quarter-finals to beat newcomer Steve Moore 10-6. Rowlands gained an initial lead in the final and was ahead at the break, but there was no denying Penton, who has been second or third for the last three years, his first veterans' title with a 10-6 victory.

Women's Sabre

Beth Davidson has won the championship every year since she became a veteran and this year was no exception. The top four seeds duly met in the semi-finals, Davidson comfortably beating Michelle Narey 10-3 in one, while Jane Hutchison had an even easier win over Bath teammate Sue Benney 10-1 in the other. The final was a closer affair but, with a 12-year age advantage over Hutchison, Davidson had the speed and power to retain her title by a margin of 10-6.

JUNIOR MEN'S FOIL TEAM WIN BRONZE IN EUROPE

The British junior men's foil team of Kristjan Archer, Amol Rattan and Alex Tofalides took the bronze medal at the European championships at the beginning of March.

The L16 against Israel was a close affair at one stage, but Rattan put GB into the lead for the first time in the third leg and Tofalides closed out the match 45-32. In their quarter-final against Hungary, Britain trailed 36-38 going into the final bout, but Archer blasted his opponent 9-5 to give Britain to a 45-43 victory. In the semi-finals they met an Italian team boasting the individual gold and bronze medalists, putting in a brave performance before going down 33-45.

GB trailed by five hits for most of the bronze medal match against Germany, but a tactical change by coach Pierre Harper put Tofalides into the anchor role. This proved to be an inspired move as the final leg started with the Germans 40-33 up. Tofalides proceeded to deliver a spectacular display of fencing, beating his opponent 12-4 to ensure that Great Britain won the bronze medal 45-44.

Speaking after the win, Kristjan Archer said. "It was a fantastic team effort. Pierre was great with the tactics, Amol (Rattan) fenced well against the Israelis, I was able to take us to victory against the Hungarians and Alex (Tofalides) showed no fear against the Germans."

Two members of Colchester & District Fencing Club (CADS) have won sports personality categories in the 2012 Sport Colchester awards. Elsa Phillipson, 15, was the under-18 female winner and Noah Cook, 13, won the under-14 male award.

THE CADET WINTON – 25 YEARS OLD AND STILL GOING STRONG

December 15/16 saw the 25th running of the Cadet Winton. Back in the late 80s, I thought that a junior version of the Winton Cup would be a great idea for youngsters, combining useful training with a social event.

With the introduction of the cadet age group in international fencing in 1989, I ran the first cadet competition in the UK by holding the Winton in December 1988. This was held at Millfield School in Somerset where it has been ever since, with all the teams staying in the school's boarding houses over the weekend.

It started life just being called a regional cadet team competition until 1990, when I asked Bobby and Nicky Winton if I could use the title Cadet Winton. Not only did they agree, but they graciously presented the trophy that has been fenced for ever since. In addition, fencers fight for individual weapon team prizes and an overall best individual performer salver is awarded.

Only five weapons were fenced for originally, with women's sabre being introduced in the mid-90s. The first year saw only four teams, with the North West being the first winners. Since then we usually get around 10 teams enter each year. The South West has been the most successful region over the years, winning 15 times out of the 25. A note not to dwell on for too long is that the fencers from the first couple of years of the Cadet Winton would now qualify as veterans!

Earlier in 2012, I went to see Sir Nicholas Winton at his home in Maidenhead to make a video for the 25th year presentations, as I knew that he could not make it to Millfield because of his age. When I arrived Sir Nicholas opened the door to me and went to make some tea for us both before talking to me for ages about his early fencing from his start at school to some of the first international trips that he was lucky enough to go on. He was articulate and extremely interesting to listen to, which was made all the more incredible when I realised he was one week short of his 103rd birthday.

Sir Nicholas said that he could not remember the last time he had talked about fencing because most people who visit him these days want to talk about how he saved the lives of 669 Jewish children just before the Second World War; learn more by googling The Power of Good. No one knew what Nicholas had done for over 50 years, and it was not until his wife was looking for something in their loft that she came across papers that revealed his involvement in this fascinating story. It

At the 2012 presentations, the video I made when I was with Sir Nicholas was played, in which, as well as a potted history of his own fencing, he sent everyone at the event his best wishes for their future fencing.

With Scotland competing for the first time this coming year, we look forward to the next 25 years being as productive as the last 25 have been.

Prof. Norman Golding
